THE WASHINGTON CRITIC.

WASHINGTON, MAY 15, 1889. PRESIDENTIAL RECEPTIONS.

The Calchet meets on Tuesdays and Fridays at 19:30 p. m.

Senators and Representatives in Congress will be received by the President every day, except Mondays, from 10 until 12.

Persons not members of Congress having business with the President will be received. from 12 until 1 on Wednesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

Those who have no business, but call merely to pay their respects, will be recrived by the President in the East Room at 1 p. m. on Mondays, Wednesdays and

VISITORS TO THE DEPARTMENTS.

Secretaries Blaine, Proctor and Tracy kave issued the following order for the reception of visitors:

Reception of Senators and Representa tives in Congress, from 10 to 12 o'clock. Reception of all persons not connected with the Departments, at 12 o'clock, except Tuesdays and Fridays, which are Cabinet days; and Thursdays in the Department of State, when the members of the Diplomati Corps are exclusively received.

Persons will not be admitted to the building after 2 o'clock each day, enless by card, which will be sent by the captain of the watch to the chief clerk or to the head of the bureau for which the visit is intended. This rule will not apply to Senators, Representatives or heads of Executive Depart-

A GREAT TERITORY.

What United States officials say who have returned from Oklahoma but confirms what has been reported of the wonderful patience, good humor and good sense exhibited by the thousands of settlers who througed into the territory together and were for days subjected to all sorts of privations and an novances. They were in a strait where more philosophy was required than is ordinarily exhibited by a crowd of thousands. Among the great number were necessarily some lawless characters. Crimes were looked for. Scenes of turbulence and violence were ex pected as a matter of course. There was no blood-letting. There were no riotous demonstrations. It was a typical-no, scarcely a typical, for it must have been an exceptionally intelligent mass of people which went to Oklahoma-American host. It was made up of people who could laugh.

A special agent of the Interior Department, who reached Washington from Oklahoma yesterday, relates a simple incident which gives the key to the situation in the new Territory better than could columns of studied explanation. The mob was in Guthrie. The outlook was ugly. Bad men were beginning to make demonstrations. There was talk of arrests by marshals elected by the settlers. A typical "terror" stepped out and "declared himself." He said that no such marshal could arrest him. He even doubted if a United States Marshal could accomplish the feat. He was distinctly "b-a-d." The breath of the hearers was held. Was bloodshed about to be

In the audience of hundreds stood small man with a piping voice. He was deeply interested. He called out in all earnestness:

Say, pardner, when did you git so

The awful innocence of the request the preposterously inquiring look on the face of the quizzer was too much. The sudden reaction from apprehension of what was a rudely grave situationmanifested itself in a mighty shout, a roar that might almost have been heard outside the Territory. The ruffign, who would have faced a revolver, slunk away before the storm of laughter. And after that, whenever a terror prepared to "declare himself," the inquiry When did you git so bad?" was put to him. Terrorism was simply laughed out of Guthrie. The American sense of humor-that sense which sometimes saves us as a nation-had been touched and all was safe. The population of the Territory was of the right sort.

Who shall say that Oklahoma will not be a Territory of importance, soon a State of importance? It has the sort of recole in it to make a region great.

THE NEW STATES. The result of the elections yesterday in the Territories, soon to become States is not without interest. In the two Dakotas the election of two Republican to one Democratic delegate to the constitutional conventions was agreed upon, and, consequently, in those Territories there was little excitement, but in Montana the vote was closer, though

WASHINGTON CRITIC he will sue him for $1,500 for thirty-two days' work in securing data from the Con gresslood illeary and other sources for Mr Depew's contennial oration, if he will not pay him $800, the amount charged Mr. Denew for the work, and which he has declined to pay. Mr. Depew and Mr. Towns were schoolmates, and Mr. Depew knowing Mr. Towns lived in Washington convenient to the desired data and wanting to help him, asked him to look up the records. This he did, but did not have it ready in time for his principal, and Mr. Depew ordered it stopped and sent him $50. Later he sent $130 more, and there he proposes to rest and let Mr. Towne sue. Possibly because Mr. Depew has a pretty well-filled purse a New York jury may render a verdict for $1,500, but a jury of Washington experts in compiling data would consider $200 a very fair allowance for a month's work. if Mr. Depew wants "old news" of that kind, there are men in Newspaper Row who will furnish it to him right along by the earthoad at $200 a mouth

Washington as a Hunter.

(Forest and Stream.)
In the discussion of George Washington and his times there has been much com-paring of the old order of things with the new in the political and material phases of the country's development, and the comparison might be carried further into the domain of nature and the game supply. What more suggestive, for instance, than the record of one of Washington's hunts when he killed five buffalo on the Little Kanawha River in West Virginia? This reads like fiction in these days, when for generations the buffalo has been unknown in the East, and the bleached bones of the bisons of the West are gathered on the plains and shipped by car loads to mingle with the ship loads of bones of Egyptians

The confederate, as if renewing an old discussion, contradicis this and the victim is asked to decide. Then the schemer says: "What we were talking about was this: What is the exact meaning of the German sentence, Was wast sie haben?" The victim, proud of his limited knowledge of Ger-man, says: "What will you have?" Then the crowd orders the drinks on

An odd case of friendship was developed during the examination of applicants for positions on the police force. Three big, fine-looking solidars came together to be examined. One of came together to be examined. One of them acted as spokesman and said when they went to Police Headquarters to file their applications that they applied with the understanding that if one of the three was not appointed, neither of the other two would accept an appointment. They were all discharged from the company they served in at about the same time and had decided not to be sepa-rated. If one of them, the spokesman said, falled to get an appointment to the police force; all three of them would rg. enlist in the army for the sake of re-maining together. They will probably all three be appointed.

The great difficulty about the City Government's arrangements for taking care of the poor lies in the fact that so many people are auxious to take advantage of such provision as a means of economy. Others impose upon the au-thorities in the most unblushing manner apparently with no other object than that of getting something for nothing, regardless of whether they need it or not. A rather peorly-dessed man recently made application at Police Headquarters for transportation to Bal-timore, stating that he found himself here without funds and could not get back to his home unless assisted. His face looked familiar, and upon investi-gation it was found that under different gation it was found that under different names he had obtained transportation to Baltimore several times before. He had done the same thing in Baltimore and had simply been enjoying himself in pleasure trips backward and forward between the two cities. The authori-ties declined to contribute any further to his passion for excursions

Judge Chandier, the First Assistant Secretary of the Interior, is a most pleasant and agreeable gentleman. It's a pleasure to transact business with him, because he'll never take up a hille trying another. There's a him, because he'll never take up a case while trying another. There's a little story going around, and it has not yet been printed, which shows in a strong light the Judge's character. Before he was appointed a number of candidates were in the field for the position of First Assistant Secretary of the Interior, and the President was sorely tried. He wanted to secure the best man and at the same time please his party. Judge Perkins of Kansas sug-man and at the same time please his party. Judge Perkins of Kansas suggested Judge Chandler, and the Kansas delegation seconded the selection. Judge Perkins said to the President: "Mr. President, when I was elected to Congress I was succeeded on the Bench by Judge Chandler and I know he is just the man to fill the office of First Assistant Secretary of the Interior." The President became impressed with the carnestness of the Kansas delegation and Judge Chandler was telegraphed for to come on. Judge Chandler at the time was trying a case and at once telegraphed back. "Can't come until case before my court is disposed of." President Harrison was very much gratified at the Judge's answer, and the appointment was held open for six days. When the Judge had cleared up his court matters he came on and the President then tendered him the position of First Assistant Secretary of the Interior.

A sea of phosphorescent fire, extend-tending as far as the eye could reach, was passed on Tuesday last, 185 miles east by north of Cape Henlopen, by the Allen Line steamship Maultoban, from Allen Line steamship Manitoban, from Glasgow, now lying at Washington avenue wharf. Captain Dunlop, mas-ter of the Manitoban, said yesterday: "Early on Tuesday pight the heavons suddenly became overcast and intensely dark, and I left the bridge temporarily, leaving Second Officer Johnson in charge. I had hardly reached the chart room when the cry of Sire was an nounced on the starboard bow, and I rushed on the bridge and found the sea rushed on the bridge and found the sea to be like a mass of flame, presenting a scene of sublime grandeur. Whenever a sea broke over the bow of the vessel the drops of fire spread over the rigging and decks like the flying embers of a genuine conflagration, where sparks were driven by a strong wind. Everywhere on the decks were found tiny sparkling phosphorescent beads which did not disappear until the next morning. For two hours the vessel was did not disappear until the next morning. In the distance the sea appeared to be breaking on a strand, but a dip of the log without finding bottom indicated

GUESTS OF GENERAL AGNUS.

Merry Party that Departed for the Editor's Country Seat.

There was an intellectual glare about the Baltimore and Potomac depot at 11:30 o clock this morning, resulting from the aggregation of numerous lights of literature, music and statesmanship. It was the party who go to dine with Vice-President Frank Thomson of the Pennsylvania Bailroad as guests of General Agnus of the Baltimore American. They visit General Agnus' country seat, "Nacirema."

Among the people who boarded the special cars provided for the occasion were Secretaries Noble, Rusk and Tracy, Assistant Secretary Bursey, Civil Service Commissioner Roosevelt, Congressman Henry Editor's Country Sent.

Suburban Improvements. Suburban Improvements.

Eckington, which is now regarded as an addition to the city of Washington, is extending its streets and sidewalks, with its sewer and water conveniences. A short distance farther west Brookland has a number of new houses going up under the shadow of the great university buildings, that present such an imposing appearance from the growing town, which is fast developing by the aid of nature on the beauty of the ornamental shade trees and handsome grass plots, and the many new buildings under way. Still farther west the new hotel at Forest Glen is fast growing toward completion. The hotel, together with a number of cottages, which are springing up around it, will make this romantic place one of the most attractive on the branch of the B. & O. R. R.

the B. & O. R. R.

Takoma is not behind in its onward march, with some twenty new houses in progress of erection, new churches, electric lights, new school buildings, etc.

At Knowles' several buildings are underway. Some new houses are going up at Garrett Park and a large force of hands are engaged in continuing the macadamizing of the streets and planting out trees and shrubhery.

At Halpine's, still farther west, a new town has been laid off in streets and avenues, all of which have been adorned with shade trees by the enterprising owner.

At Rockville a number of new improvements are already under way and a number of others in prospect. Derwood, Washington Grove and Gaithersburg have a number of dwellings in course of construction, and it is thought from the many inquiries and engagements for summer board by the city people that these auburban towns will not be able to accommodate all the applicants the coming summer.—[Baltimore Sun.

A WELL-DRESSED VAG.

He Is Fined $15 for an Assault by Judge Miller. Melton Prince, one of the best-dressed defendants seen for some time, was in the Police Court this morning charged with being a "vag." The charge was prosecuted in connection with a charge of assault on Ruggles W. Clapp. Prince is a young man, il years old, and has been arrested ten or fifteen times.

His father has stood by him, and was in court to also appear in his son's defense.

His father has stood by him, and was in court to-day to appear in his son's defense. Young Prince said that Clapp had been drinking and used the most abusive language, referring to his mother in a manner which no man could fail to resent, and he struck at him with a whip. Prince was in a carriage at the time. His father said that he was a kind son, and that he was supplied with all the money he needed. His mother made a pet of him because he was afflicted with the habit of stammering, Lieutenant Amiss testified that Prince was in the habit of associating with doubtful characters.

in the habit of associating with doubtint characters.

In this connection the name of "Doc." Palmer was mentioned.
"Do you know the Doctor?" asked Dan Cabill, who appeared in Prince's defense.
"He is a genteel man—a man of leisure."
"I don't know about his gentility," said the Lieutenant, "but he is a man of leisure."

While Officer Weedon was putting him in the cell, Prince called him a vite name and the officer struck him twice. This was commented on to the Court in Mr. Cahill's characteristic manner.

"Doc." Palmer took the stand and testified that Clapp had used the language referred to by Prince. As to himself, he said that he had an income of $75 a month and wanted his character vindicated.

Judge Miller said that the proof fell short in the charge of yagraner and that he was not a believer in the doctrine that a man could insult another and invoke the law against his chastiser. The assault, however, was proved and he would impose a fine of $15.

Holland Waives Examination. Campbell Carrington this morning waived an examination in the case of E. E. Holland, the young Baltimore man arrested on the charge of obtaining money under false pre-tenses, and he was held for the grand jury.
